

NEWS SUMMARY

Washington.
Messengers sent to Montreal by the President returned on March 19, and reported that the Marquis had agreed to return under the provisions of full immunity from prosecution. The papers were immediately made out, and were sent to Montreal by a special messenger. A dispatch was, however, received from the Marquis, in which he said that it was not his intention to return to his country, and that he would remain in Montreal. The official paper extending immunity was to be handed to him in New York.

The arrival of the Marquis through the intervention of the Republican administration, it was thought, would enable the Democrats to secure their majority in the Senate. The papers were immediately made out, and were sent to Montreal by a special messenger. A dispatch was, however, received from the Marquis, in which he said that it was not his intention to return to his country, and that he would remain in Montreal. The official paper extending immunity was to be handed to him in New York.

The Treasury Department received last week from San Francisco, fourteen tons of silver, to prepare for the circulation of silver. This will result in a half a billion dollars. The amount of silver in the vaults of the Treasury at the present time is less than $50,000. Orders were received at the Department for $50,000,000 fractional currency. The House Committee on Appropriations, on March 21, had under consideration the item of $98,000, to supply deficiencies in the office of the Clerk of the House, that amount being necessary to defray the expenses of the investigating committee.

Benjamin F. Butler was before the Committee on Expenditures in the War Department on the 21st of March. The Chairman called attention to a telegram in the New York Evening Post and Commercial Advertiser, in which it was stated that a prominent Republican lawyer had taken much interest in what was known as the Belknap scandal so far as it related to Mr. Pendleton. He asked General Butler if he was the gentleman to whom reference was made. The General replied that he could not tell. The General replied to a question of Mr. Bass, that he knew nothing of the payment of money by Mr. Pendleton further than what he saw in the newspapers, and knew from hearsay.

A book-keeper named Hadden, of the Marine Bank, was arrested, and an examination of his books shows the bank has been defrauded of thirty-eight thousand dollars. It appears that whenever Henry Bode, customer of the bank, came to the bank for deposit, Hadden would raise, say from five hundred dollars to one thousand five hundred dollars. Bode has been arrested, charged with being in collusion with Hadden.

Mr. Blair, before the investigating committee, was asked whether he had any conversation at any time with Mr. Bower, now Mr. Belknap's relative to her interest in the Kentucky Central Railroad. The answer was: "Two or three weeks ago, at the Arlington Hotel." At that time the witness asked Mr. Belknap whether she received any money on account of the claim. The witness told Mr. Belknap she had received seventy thousand dollars. The claim was for about $300,000. The witness received $70,000. During that conversation the witness was in a state of excitement and distress. Mr. Belknap was a friend of hers, and the witness felt much interest on her account. She had simply mentioned to Mr. Belknap as a fact, and she had not talked to her sister, she had heard her for over a year. She related to Gen. Kiddo the conversation between her and Mr. Belknap.
